

This page contains information about research projects that are currently underway.

- Project Description:
    - This project will determine if the use of wider longitudinal pavement markings for center lines,, lane lines, and edge lines can provide critical information to drivers that will help them to better identify the roadway alignment and maintain appropriate lane position.
  - The objectives of this project are:
    1. To implement wider pavement marking in selected sites that represent the diverse geometric and operational characteristics throughout the state.
    2. To analyze and assess the safety impacts of implementing wider pavement markings on rural two lane highways in Idaho.
  - Estimated Completion Date: December 31, 2017
  - Budget: $174,000
