Have you ever wanted to change the expiration date for your intrastate (Full Fee) registrations to a different month? If so, we have the solution!

Are you unsure if this is really a benefit? Here are some of the reasons to choose a different expiration date:

- ✓ Select a month that is financially better for you.
- ✓ Allows you to renew in future years later in the renewal period, thus reducing the number of registration months you are assessed fees. For example:

You have seasonal operations that begin in April and typically cease in late September. Choose an October 31 expiration date (in case your operations continue longer than anticipated). Going forward, you can renew with an April 1 effective date, expiring October 31, resulting in payment of 7 months' registration fees, resulting in potential savings of hundreds of dollars per vehicle each year. The only restriction is that we cannot offer registration fee installment payment plans when registering for less than 12 months.

Ready to change? Complete the following information and return this notice with your renewal. If renewing online, review the instructions on the www.trucking.idaho.gov website in the Vehicle Registrations section titled Full Fee Online Expiration Date Change.
